Step Up. Take Decisions. Lead Transformation.

This MBA is built around three shifts that define a career at the senior level. Not generic management theory. A structured progression from where you are to where you are ready to go.

01 From operator to decision-maker.

You stop executing strategy and start setting it. Capital allocation, business model design, competitive strategy - the frameworks that put you in the room where decisions are made.

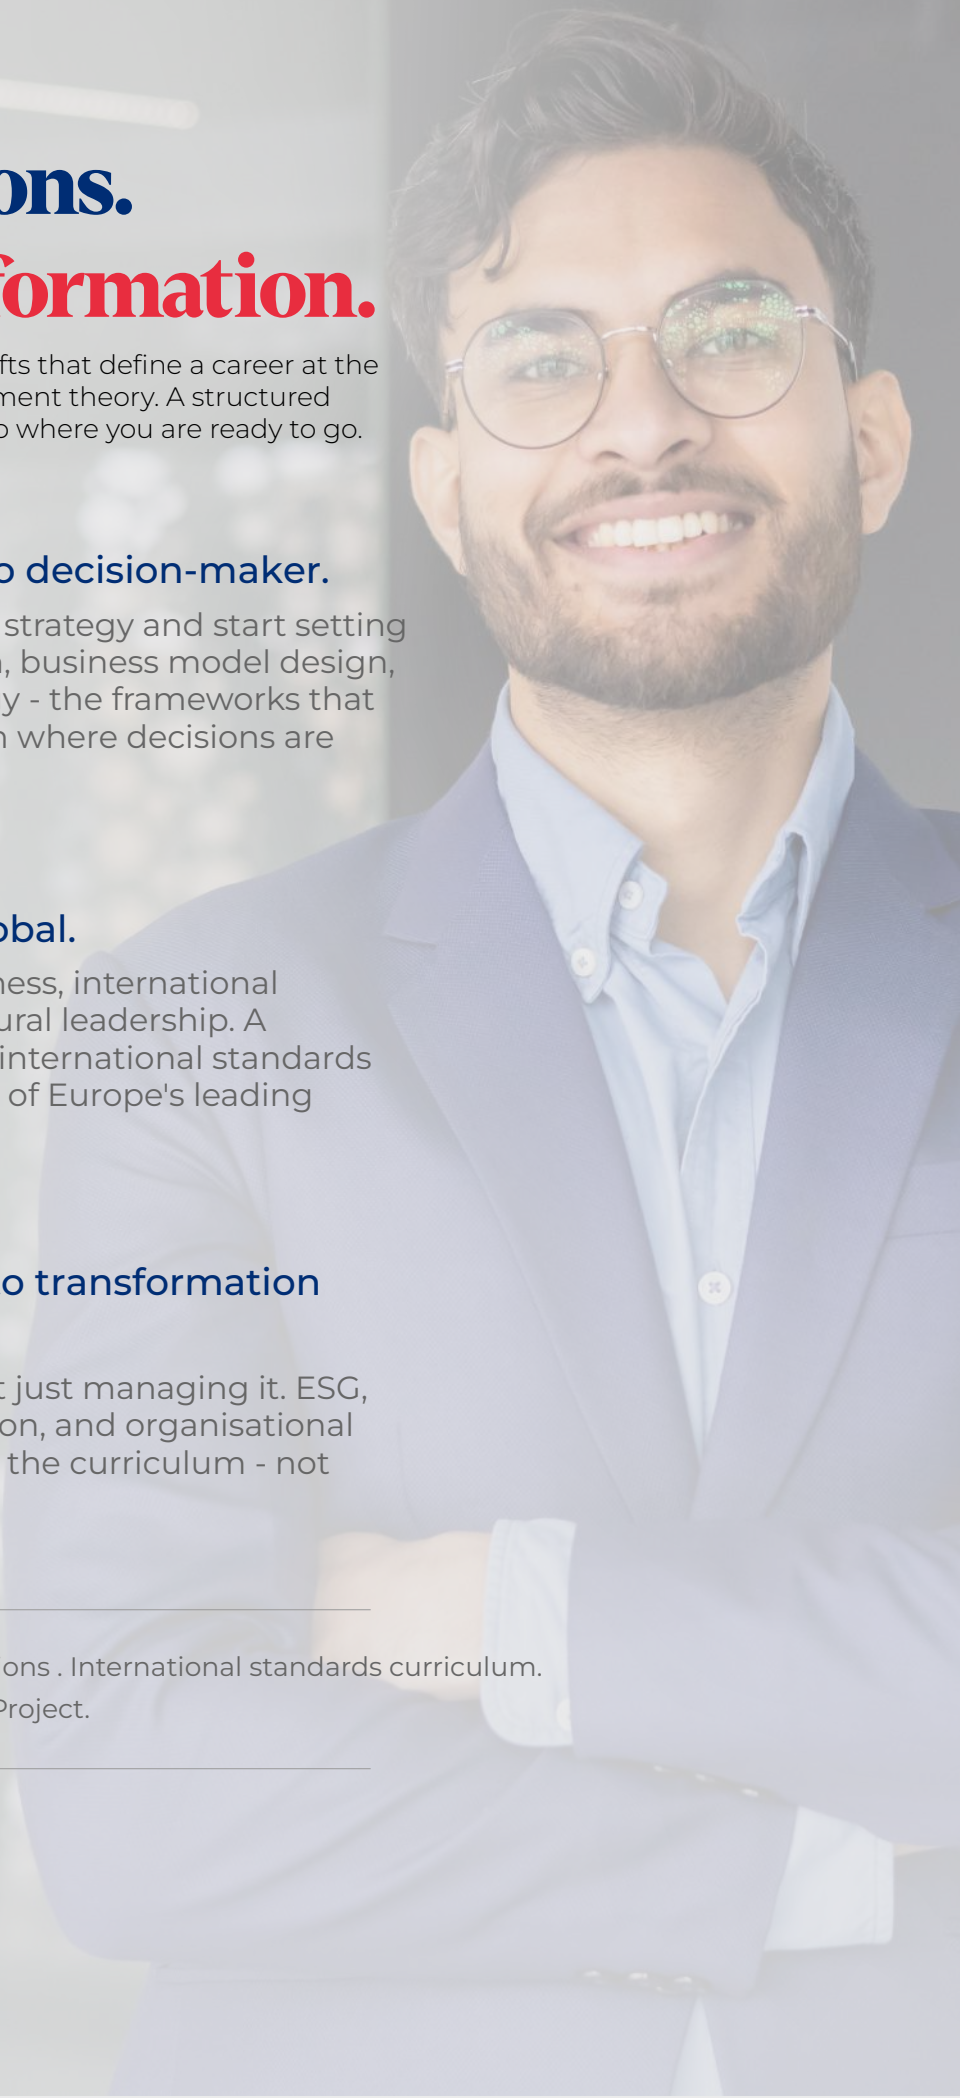

02 From local to global.

Geopolitical awareness, international markets, cross-cultural leadership. A curriculum built to international standards by faculty from one of Europe's leading business schools.

03 From manager to transformation leader.

Driving change, not just managing it. ESG, digital transformation, and organisational dynamics built into the curriculum - not bolted on.

Fourteen courses. Two specialisations. International standards curriculum. Culminating in a CEO Challenge Project.

Capstone: CEO Challenge Project

From Business Foundations to Business Impact

The CEO Challenge Project is the capstone of the MBA and the central thread that connects learning across the programme. Rather than being a standalone assignment, it evolves throughout the MBA, with the concepts, frameworks and tools introduced in each module progressively applied, tested and refined to solve a real business challenge for a partner organisation.

Adopting a consultative approach, participants work as trusted advisors, tackling a live business challenge in conditions comparable to those faced by managers and consultants. Working with real organisational data, engaging with business leaders and key stakeholders, and operating within the constraints and complexities of a live business environment, participants take ownership of their analysis, recommendations and proposed solutions.

Applying a structured consulting methodology, participants:

- Conduct an in-depth diagnostic using qualitative and quantitative data, including advanced statistical tools, market analysis and stakeholder interviews.
- Formulate and evaluate strategic options by assessing trade-offs, risks and implementation feasibility.
- Develop clear, evidence-based recommendations aligned with organisational objectives and business constraints.
- Define an actionable implementation plan with clear priorities, timelines and success metrics.

Working directly with a partner organisation, participants:

- Address a live strategic business challenge.
- Access internal data and contextual business information.
- Engage regularly with managers and key stakeholders throughout the project.
- Validate insights through continuous collaboration with the organisation.
- Present strategic recommendations designed to deliver measurable business impact.

Advanced specialisation modules further strengthen the experience by providing specialised frameworks and tools that can be directly applied to the project, enabling participants to deepen their analysis, challenge assumptions and enhance decision-making.

By integrating learning with real-world application, the CEO Challenge Project develops the consulting mindset, strategic decision-making capabilities and leadership skills required to create meaningful organisational impact.
